

Source: Lake Point Tower 2, Phyllis Seltzer, 2001
Found: Art Institute of Chicago
Why it was collected: Artistic rendition of Chicago

Source: Sean Fermoy, 2022

Found: The Chicago Design Archive

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago sports culture

Source: Typedelic Poster Series, Judith Mayer, 2018

Found: The Chicago Design Archive

Why it was collected: Use of color and shape to create visual interest

Source: Renata Graw, Jeremiah Chiu, Alexa Viscius, 2013

Found: The Chicago Design Archive

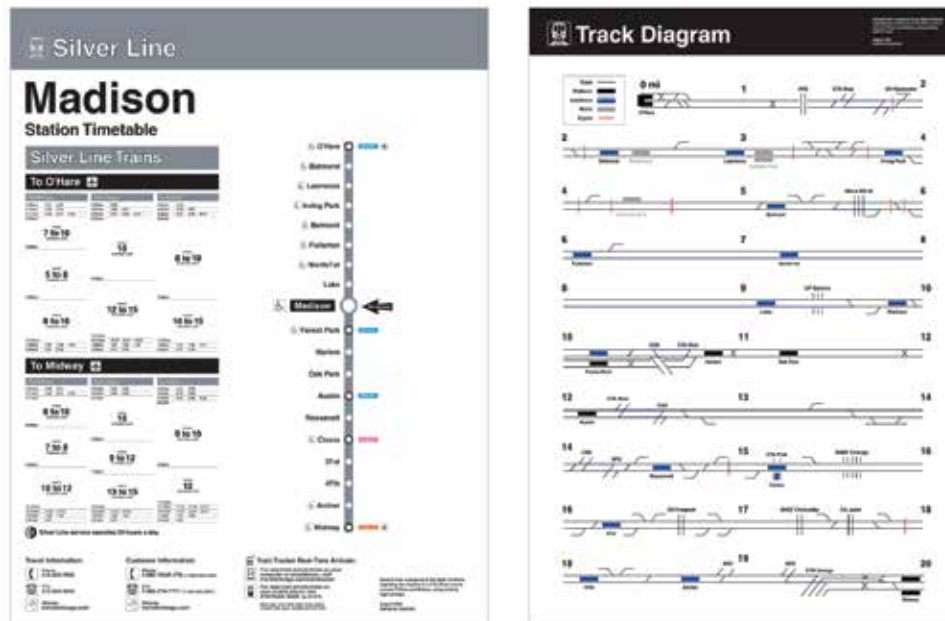

Why it was collected: Use of color and shape to create visual interest

Source: John Rieben, 1960

Found: The Chicago Design Archive

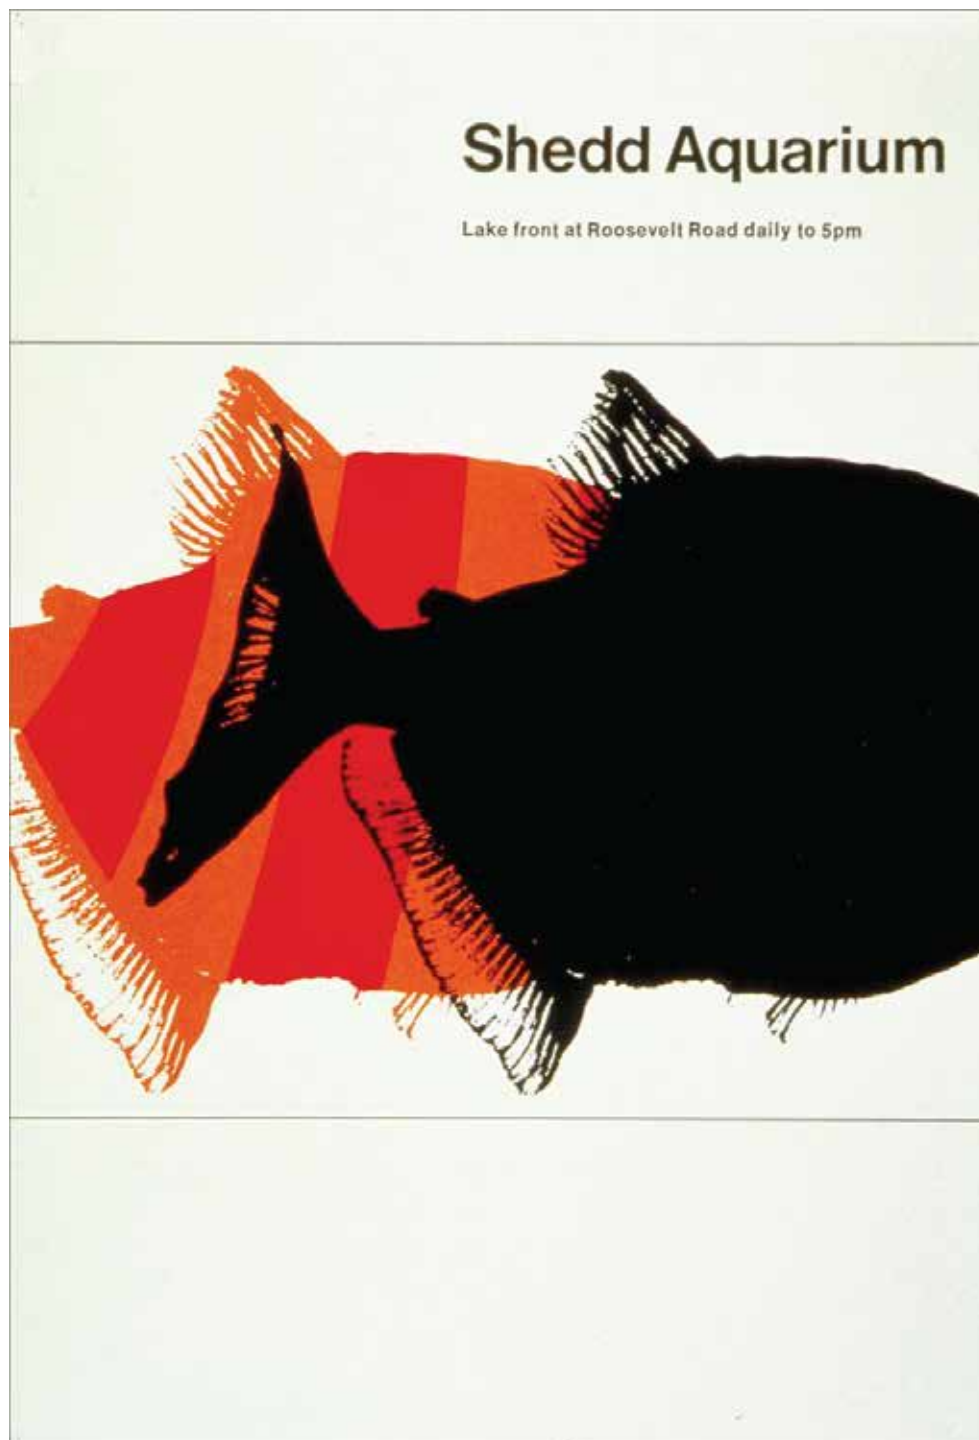

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago through graphic design

Source: Proposal to the Illinois State Government Regarding the Creation of a CTA Silver Line, Katherine Gearhart, 2024

Found: The Chicago Design Archive

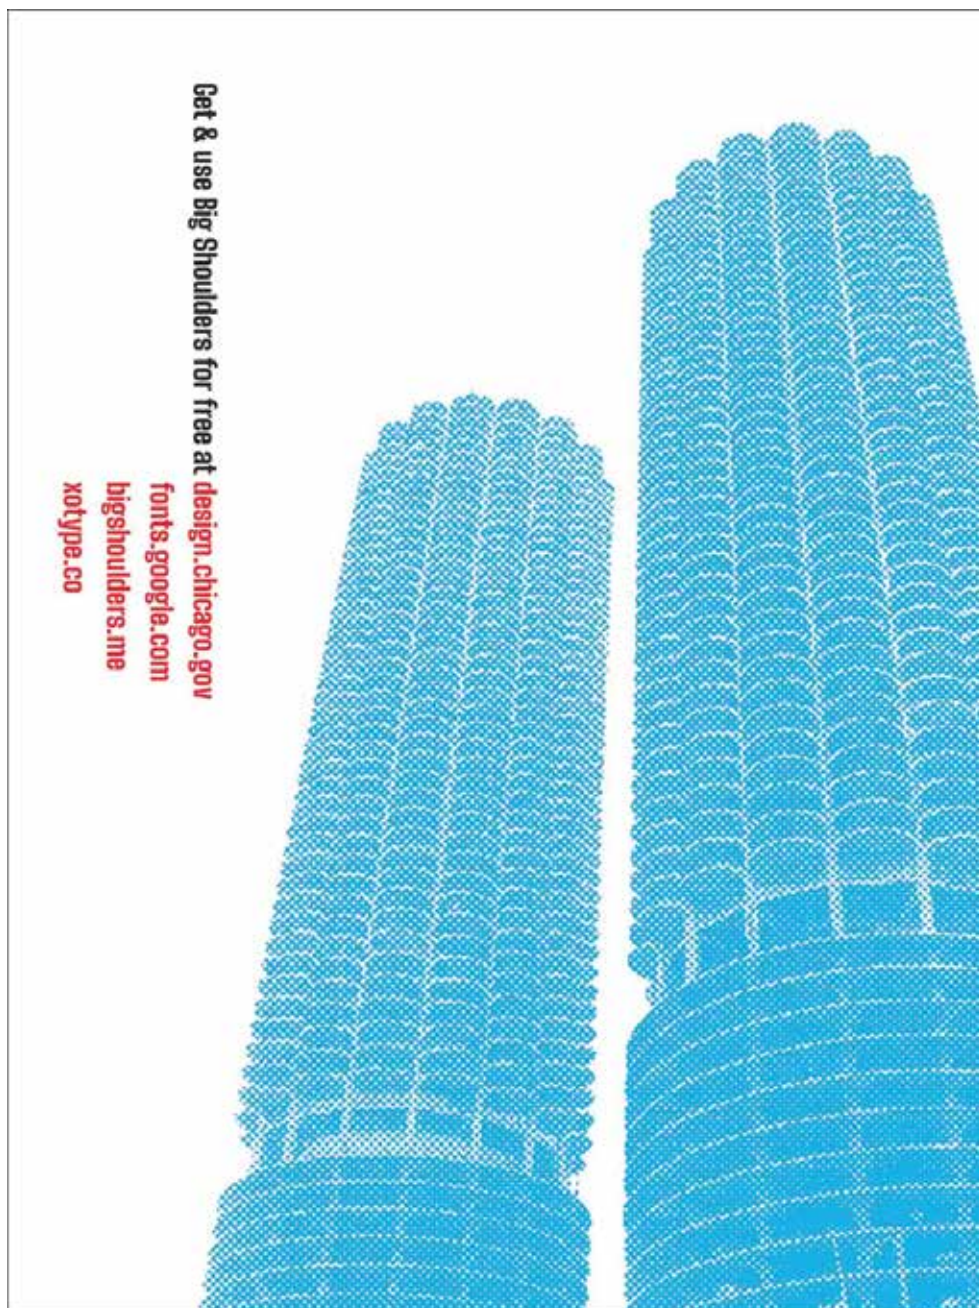

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago through graphic design

Source: Carol Lipper, John Massey, 1966

Found: The Chicago Design Archive

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago through graphic design

Source: Patric King, 2020

Found: The Chicago Design Archive

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago through graphic design

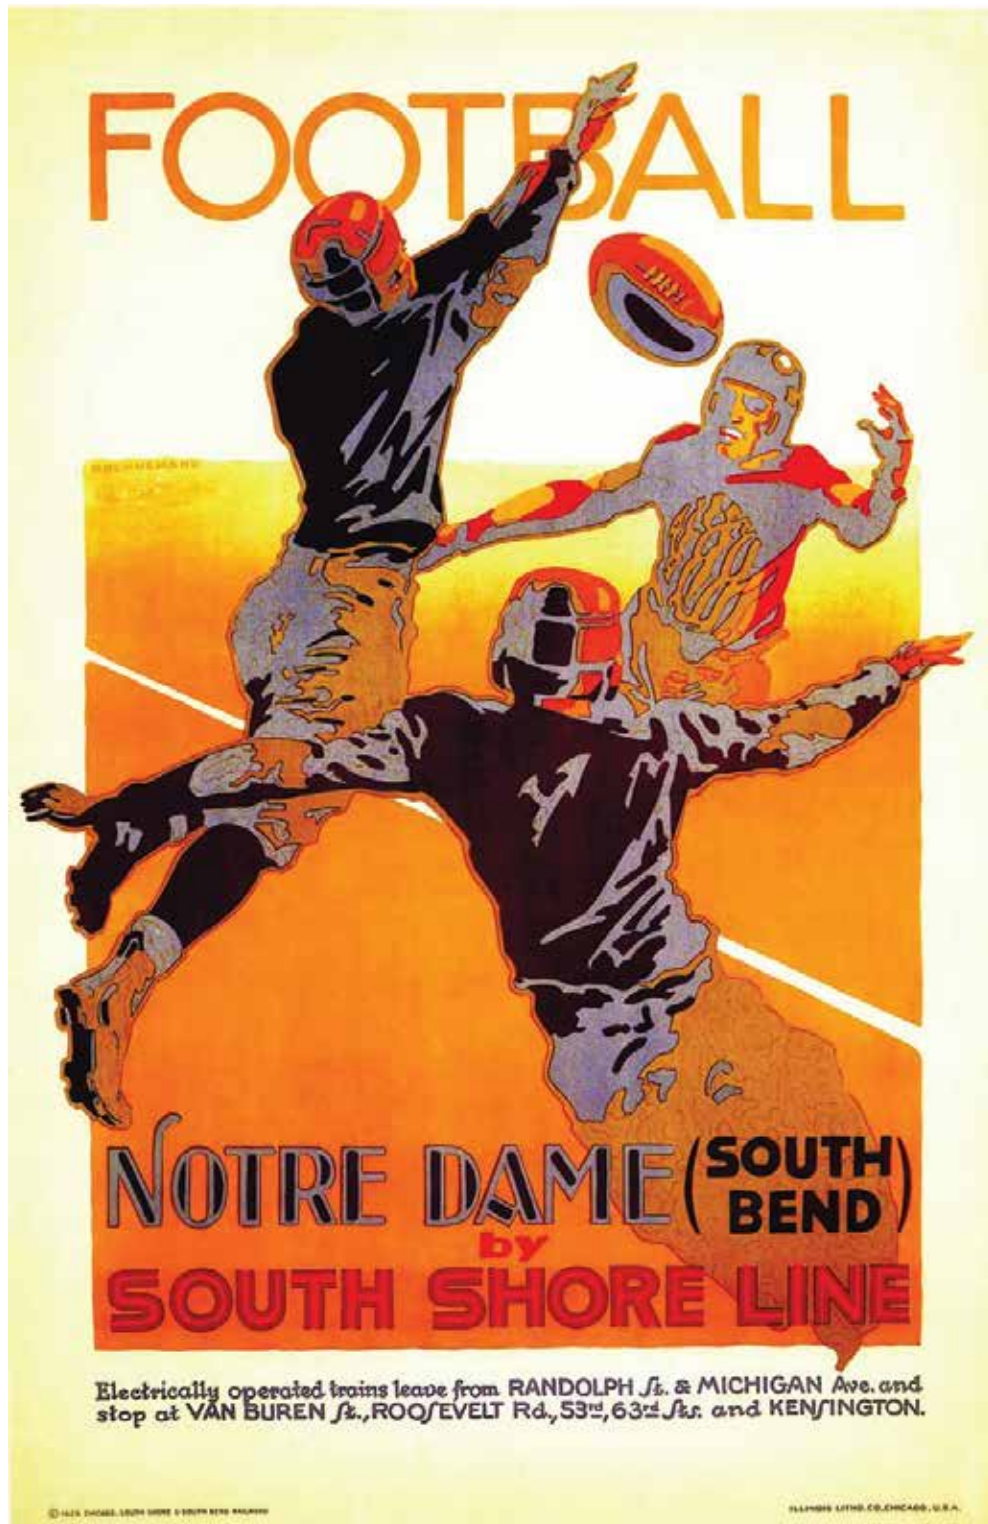

Chicago
Chicago
Chicago

Big Shoulders is how we speak as one Chicago. Big Shoulders Stencil is how we work and protest. Big Shoulders Inline is how we celebrate.

Source: Patric King, 2020

Found: The Chicago Design Archive

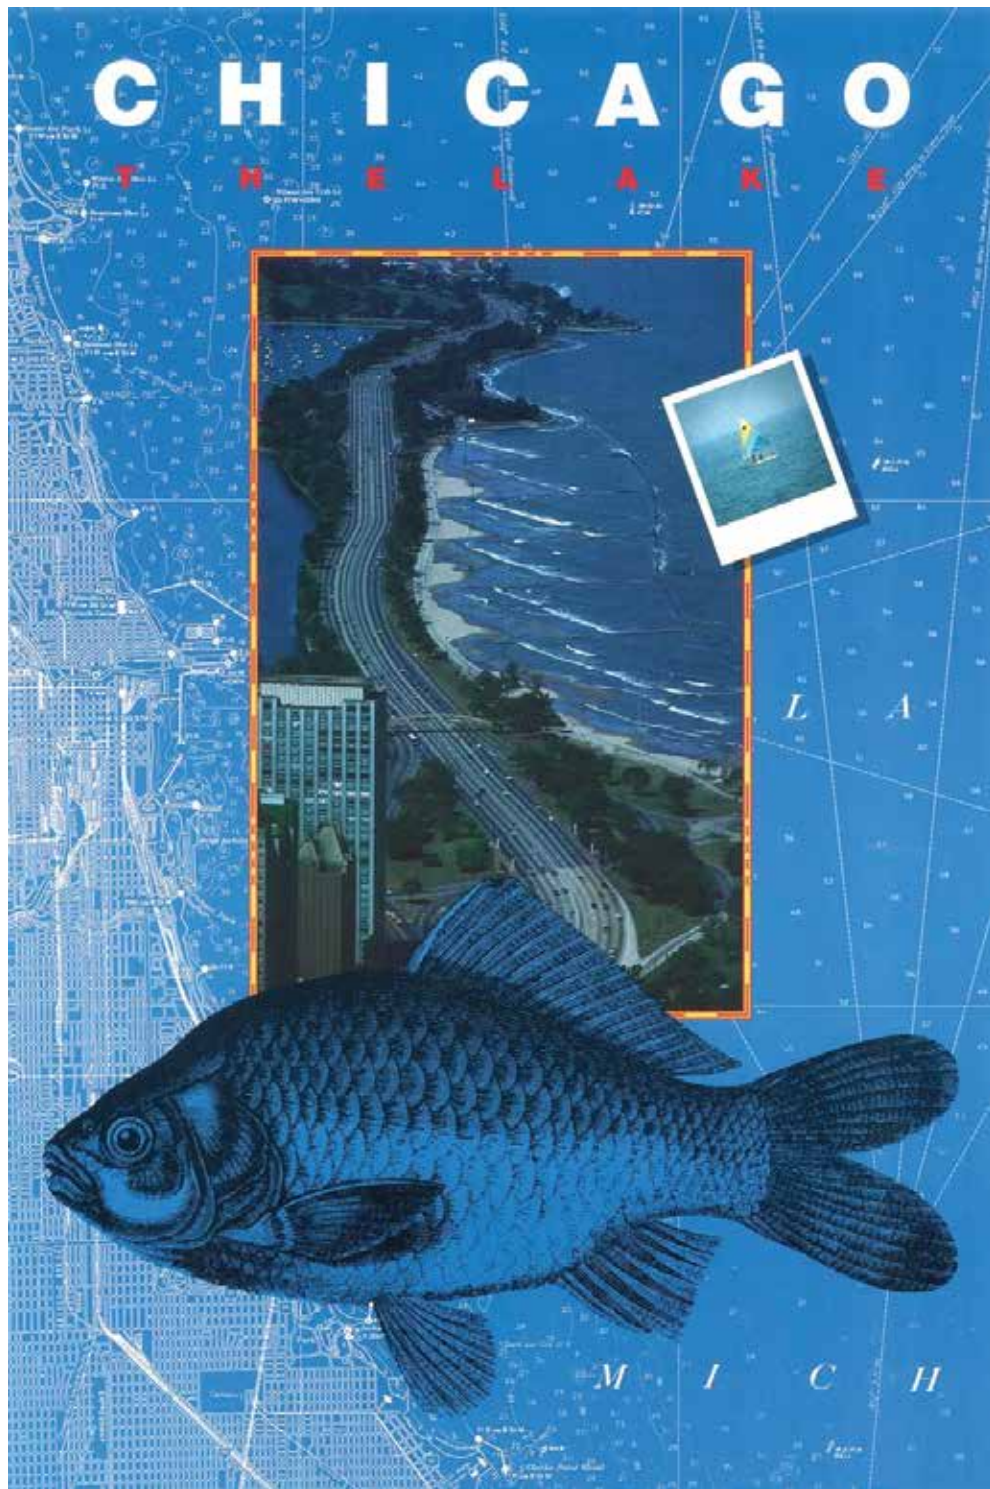

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago through graphic design

Source: Otto Brennemann, 1926

Found: The Chicago Design Archive

Why it was collected: Example of graphic design used within the context of sports

Source: Jack Weiss, 1987

Found: The Chicago Design Archive

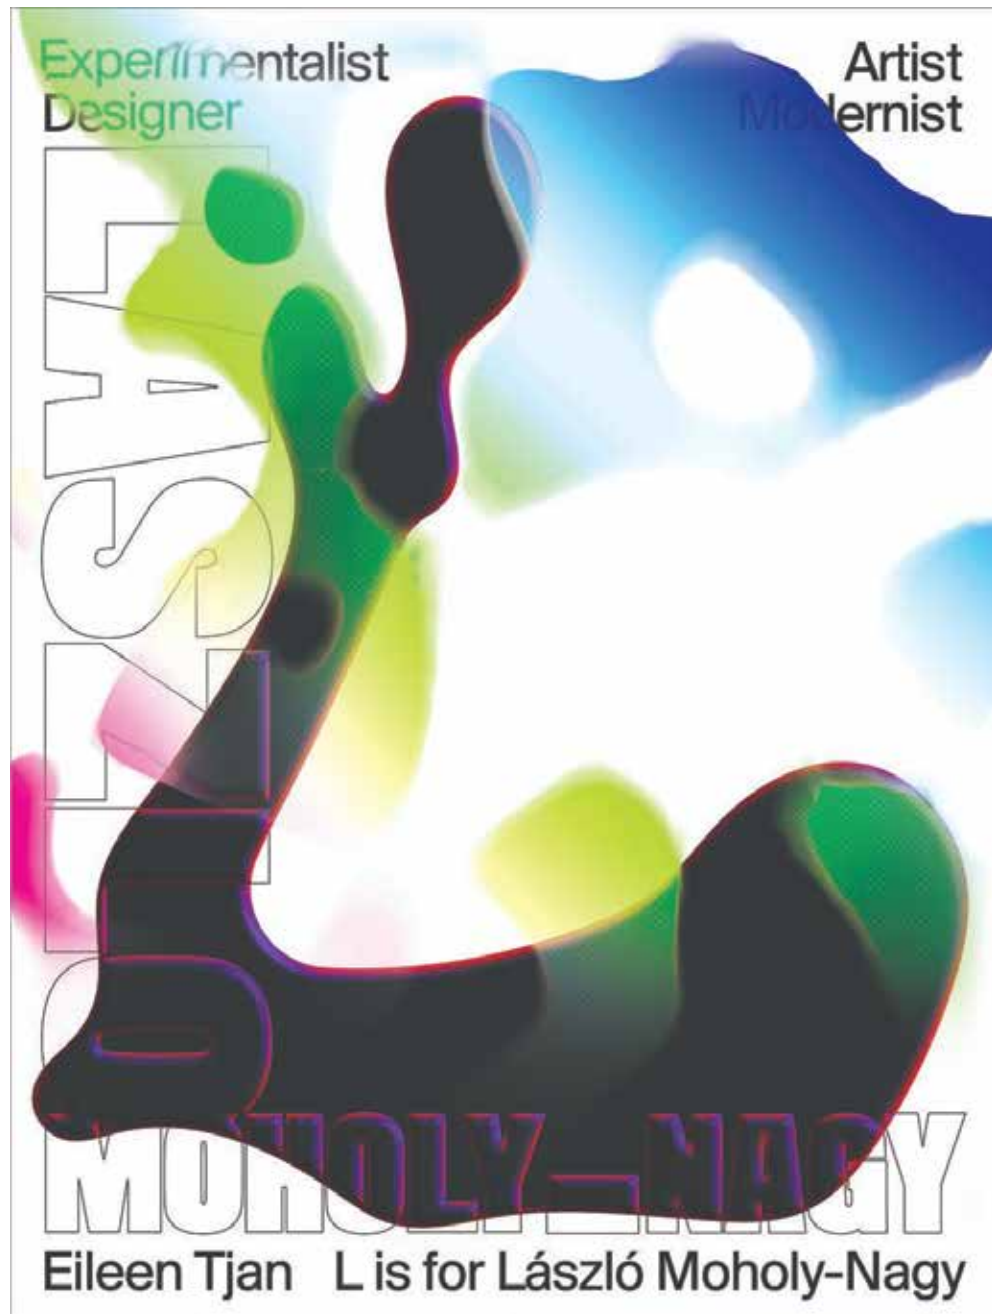

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago through graphic design

Source: Wayne Stuetzer, Barbara Inzinga, 1989

Found: The Chicago Design Archive

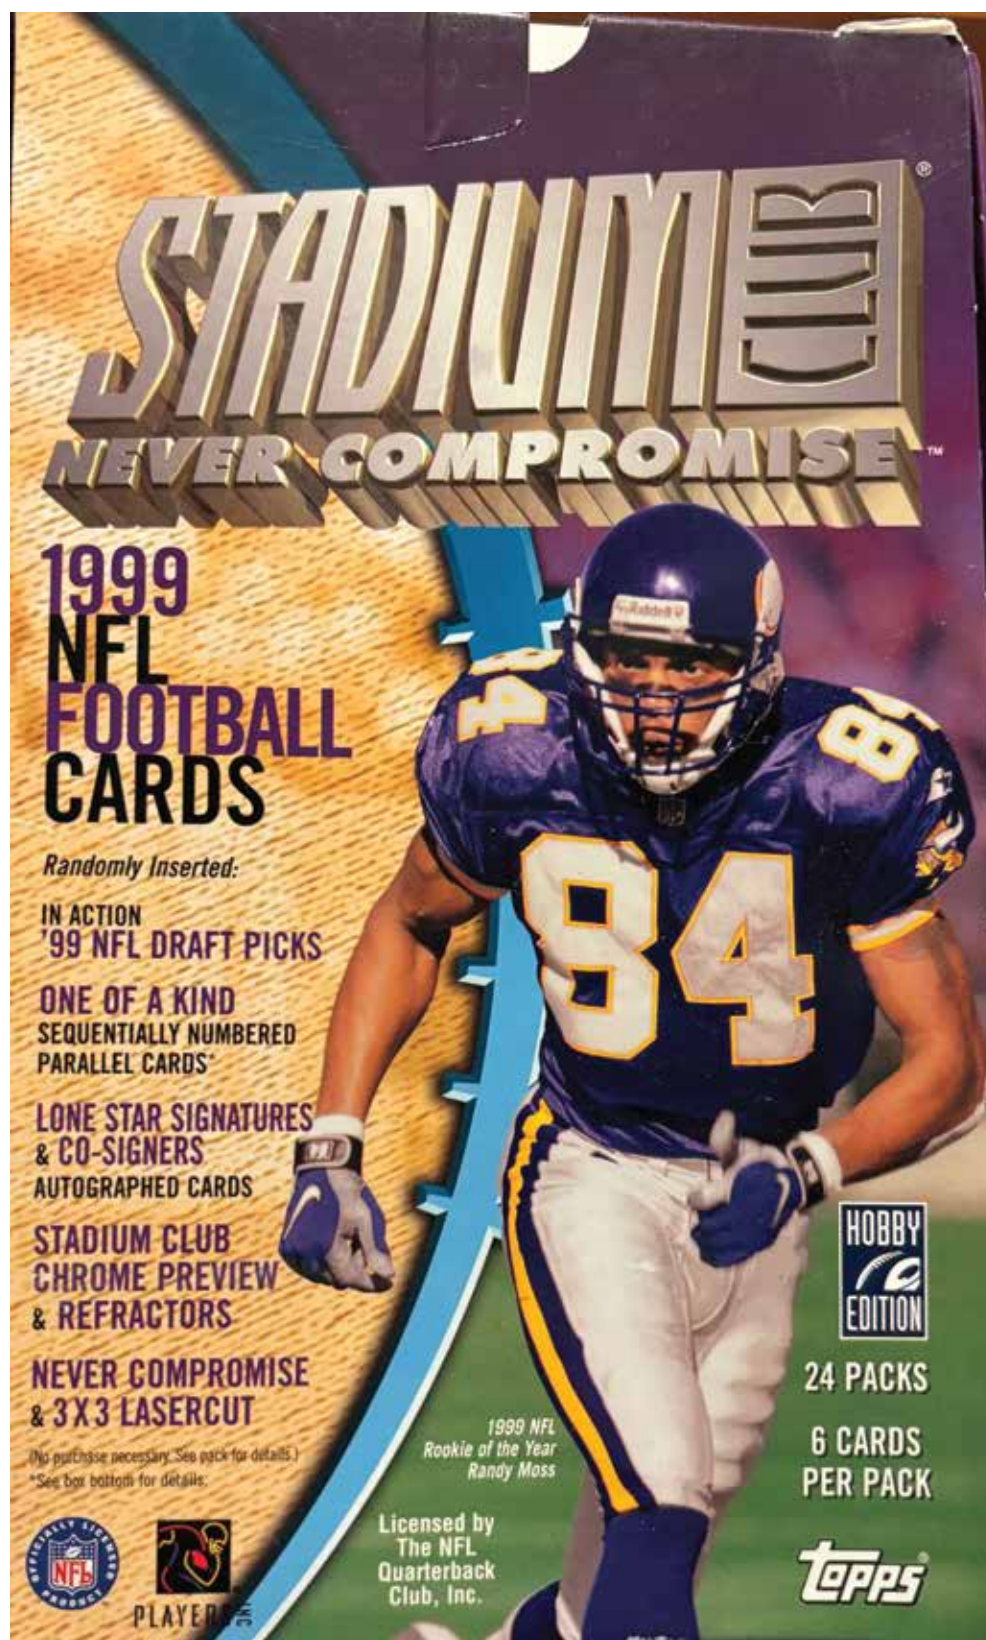

Why it was collected: Example of using an image inside of lettering

Source: Eileen Tjan, 2018

Found: The Chicago Design Archive

Why it was collected: Use of color and shape to create visual interest

Source: The Topps Company, Inc., 1999

Found: The People's Graphic Design Archive

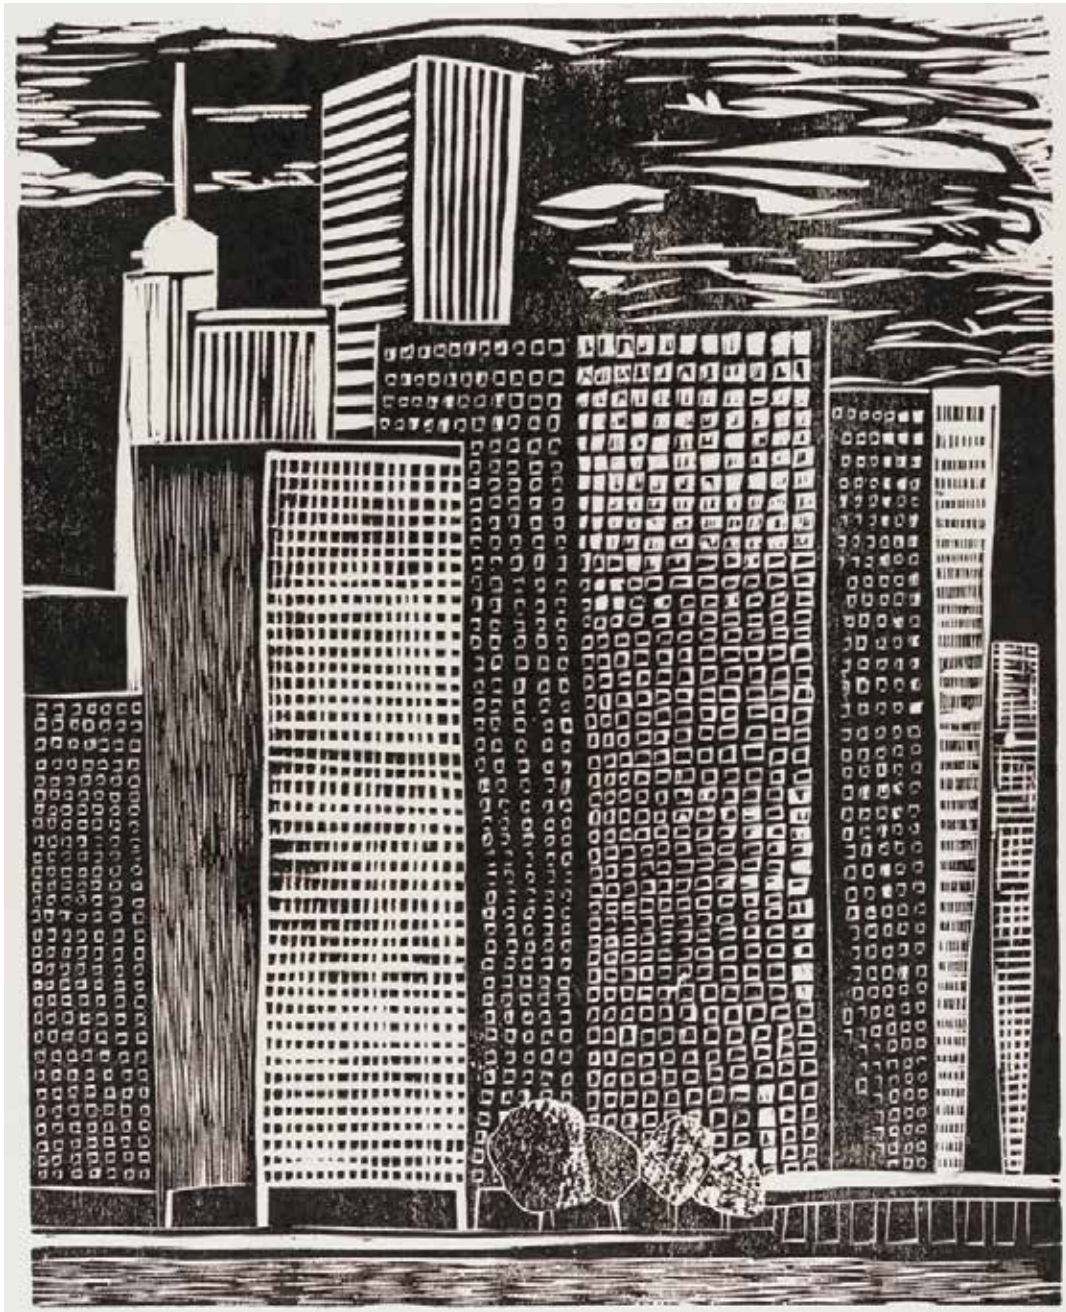

Why it was collected: Example of graphic design used within the context of sports

Source: Willard Frederic Elms, 1920–1929

Found: Art Institute of Chicago

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago through graphic design

Source: Mies van der Rohe-ism, Bronislaw M. Bak, 1967

Found: Art Institute of Chicago

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago through graphic design

Source: Lake Shore Drive, Bronislaw M. Bak, 1967

Found: Art Institute of Chicago

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago through graphic design

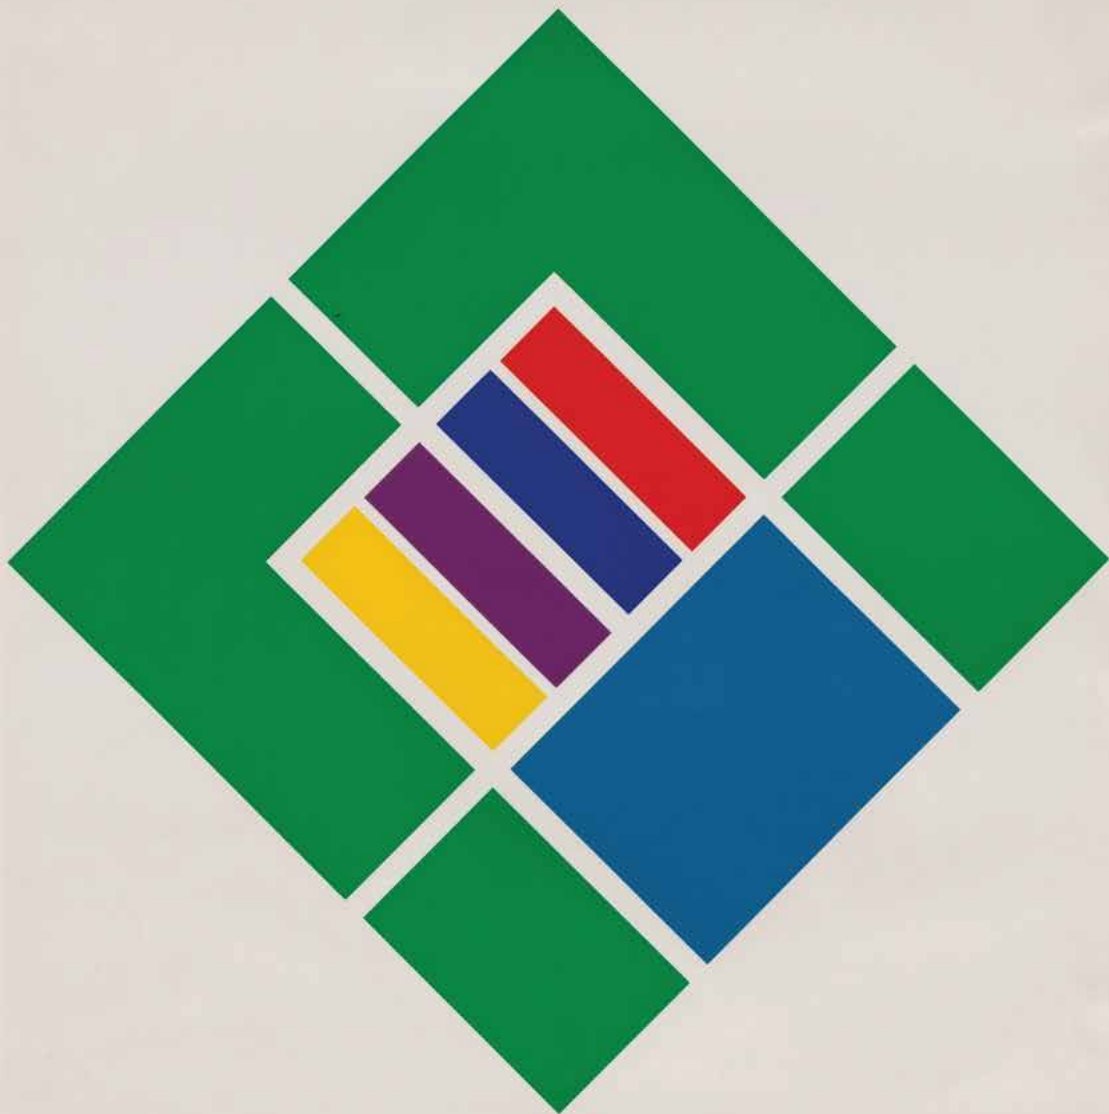

Source: Chicago, Art Sinsabaugh, 1966

Found: Art Institute of Chicago

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago through photography

lincoln park

run jump play look walk think dream

Source: Lincoln Park, John Massey, 1966

Found: Art Institute of Chicago

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago through graphic design

Source: Chicago Has a Great Lake, John Massey, 1966

Found: Art Institute of Chicago

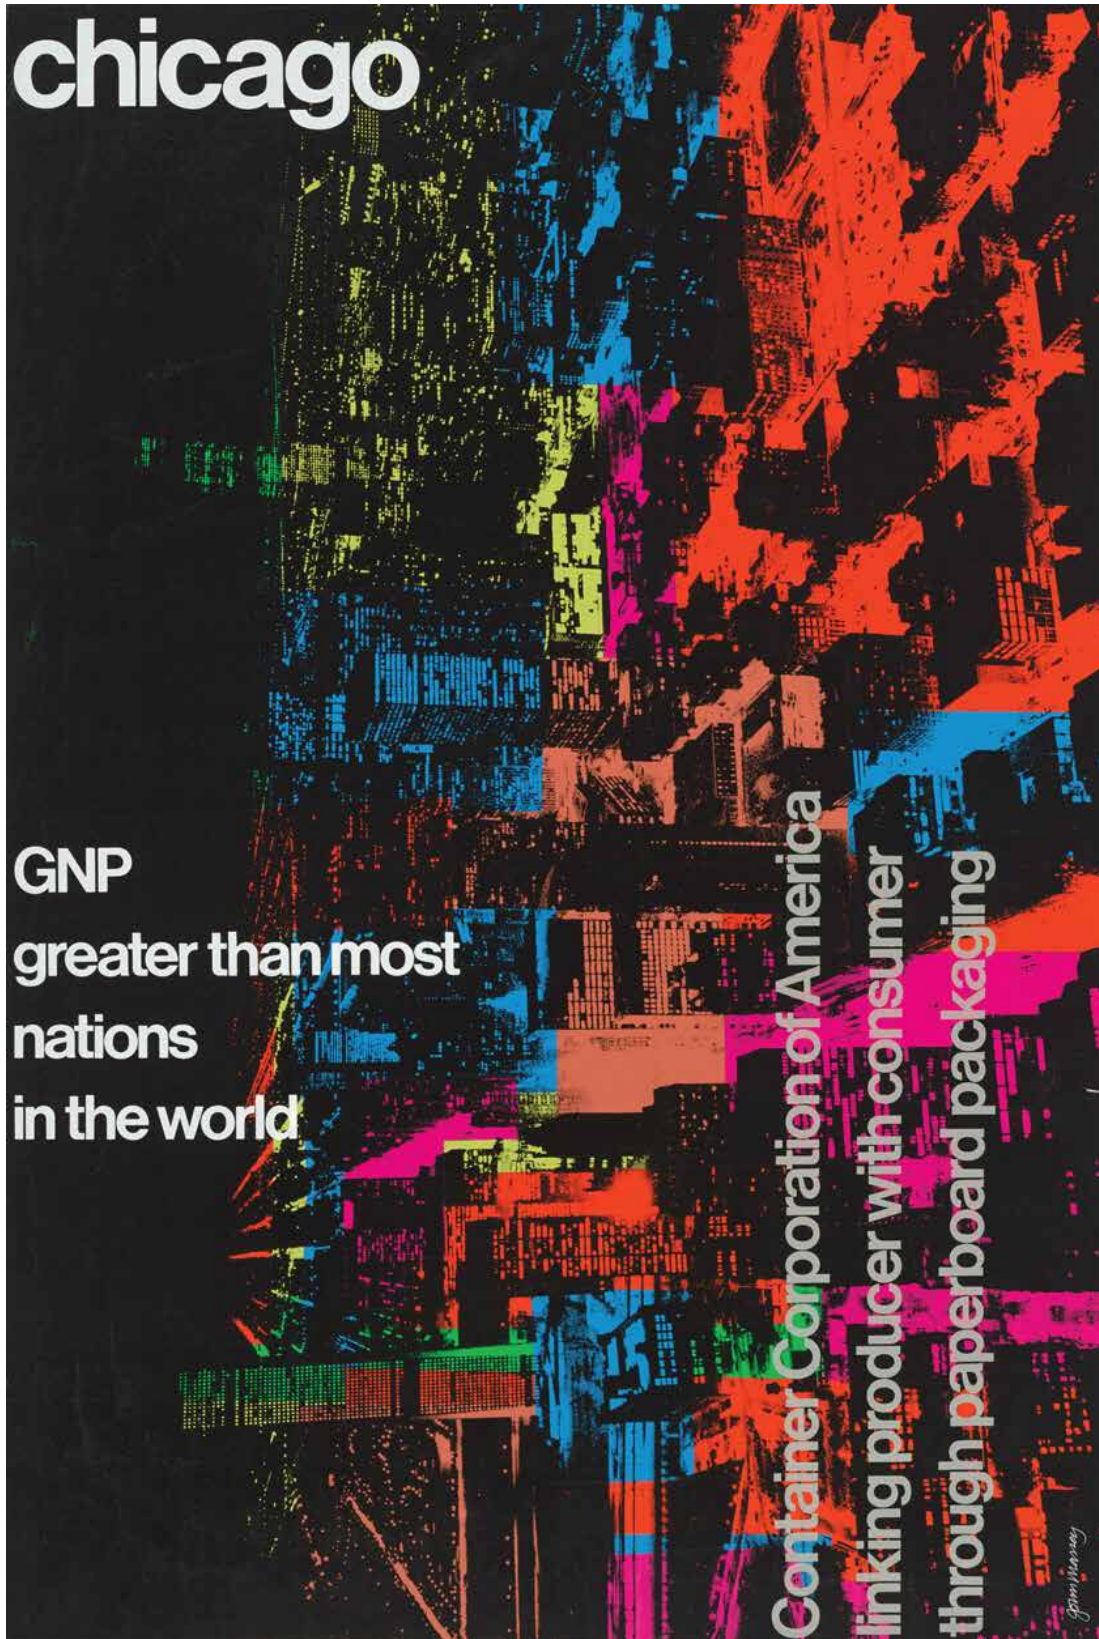

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago through graphic design

Source: Sears (Willis) Tower, Chicago, Illinois, Massing Model, Skidmore, Owings & Merrill (Architect), n.d.

Found: Art Institute of Chicago

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago through architecture

Source: Chicago, GNP Greater than most Nations in the World,
John Massey, n.d.

Found: Art Institute of Chicago

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago through graphic design

Source: Landscape Chicago, John Massey, 1987

Found: Art Institute of Chicago

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago through graphic design

Source: Chicago Bear Fans, South Chicago, James Iska, 1986

Found: Art Institute of Chicago

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago through photography

Source: Lion (One of a Pair, North Pedestal), Edward Kemeys, 1893

Found: Art Institute of Chicago

Why it was collected: Example of Chicago through sculpture

Source: Entry for the Beijing Summer Olympic Games Symbol Design Competition, Kenya Hara, 2008

Found: The People's Graphic Design Archive

Why it was collected: Example of graphic design used within the context of sports

Source: Baltimore Ravens Logo (1996-1998),
Frederick Bouchat, 1996

Found: The People's Graphic Design Archive

Why it was collected: Example of graphic design used within the context of sports

Source: Victory Lane Indoor Karting logo, Sam Bass, 1999

Found: The People's Graphic Design Archive

Why it was collected: Example of retro logo design